30th September 2011

Dear Parents

Year 10 have their first GCSE Maths module on 9th November. The paper is one hour long and students will be allowed a calculator. It is worth 26.7% of the total GCSE. I am enclosing a list of topics which will be examined and information on how to revise. We have a policy of no resits and although students will be fully prepared for the exam in class, extra revision is essential.

All students will be given a pack of revision material to work through during the half term holiday and information about revision classes will be published soon.

If you have any concerns, please contact myself or your child's maths teacher.

Yours faithfully

Miss Fulford
